Washington, April 25 .- (Special.)-The eeting of the a presidents which een called together at Birmingham on the 3d of June is not so much to get the alliance together politically as it is to onducting the national end of it.

A member of the legislative committee told me tonight that since Colonel Polk and little Jack Turner had been trotting around the country making third party back the money they usually send on

They are holding it back, they say, because they do not care to send money to Polk to pay his expenses around the country to make third party speeches. As a consequence, this man says Polk is running short of money and needs to do something to make the states send on that which they are assessed to pay the expenses of the national branch of the order. Of course besides this perhaps Colonel Polk will attempt to carry the entire order over into the third party, but if all the states are represented he will

A majority of the state presidents in the south will perhaps vote to withhold all money from the national officers until they agree to stop making third party es, whether they are making them at the expense of the alliance or not.

Allen Candler and the Third Party. Ee-Congressman Allen D. Candler, of Sainesville, is here. He was on the floor of the house this morning and while there as given a genuine ovation by the old more of them expressed the hope that would be a candidate for congress again. When here he was looked upon as one of the soundest democrats and ablest nized by every one. There was a good eal of talk among the Georgians about the rumor of his candidacy for congress and nearly every one of them expresse to him the hope that he would accep nomination again and redeem the district from the third party.

In speaking of the political situation in Georgia Mr. Candler said: "The democracy is safe in Georgia. Two weeks ago the third party people were aggressive The leaders are afraid for the rank and file to hear the truth and hence have mocratic newspapers, nor hear demo cratic speeches; bus Georgians are not in the habit of being ordered, and the hones finding light. The St. Louis platform is more than they can swallow. In another month there will be nobody left in the ws who went into it toping to get office. No, the most noisy men in the third party are not farmers at all, but professional agitators. Most of the farmers in our state are democrats and know that the and they will stay with it. I have made several speeches and this is my observation wherever I have been."

CHINESE EXCLUSION.

House Bill. Washington, April 25.—Mr. Butler gave notice that on Thursday of next week he would ask the senate to take up for action the bill to transfer the revenue marine from the treasury department to the navy department.

Mr. Allison expressed the hope that when the appropriation bills were ready they would take precedence of all other matters.

Mr. Coke gave notice that he would address the senate very briefly tomorrow on Mr. Morgan's silver resolution.

The Chinese exclusion bill was then taken up and the presiding officer put the question on the adoption of the substitute reported by the committee on foreign relations.

Mr. Sherman gave the only affirmative orted by the committee on toreign reactions.

Mr. Sherman gave the only affirmative vote, and there being no vote in the negative, the presiding officer declared the substitute adopted.

Immediately afterwards, however, Mr. Mitchell (who had the floor to speak against the substitute) came into the chamber, and the presiding officer was proceeding to put the question again when Mr. Butler said he understood that the substitute had been adopted.

The presiding officer admitted that he had so decided, but said he would put the question again.

"The senator from Ohio," said Mr. Butler, "was unanimous." (Laughter.)

"While the chair did so decide," said the presiding officer, "the chair will count it as no vote."

"Is the senate ready for the question?"

"No, sir," said Mr. Mitchell. Instead, however, of proceeding with his own argument against the substitute, he yielded the floor to Mr. Squire, who argued in favor of the house bill, or of some other vigorous measure to enforce the exclusion of the Chinese.

Mr. Mitchell said that much as he re-

Mr. Mitchell said that much as he regretted to antagonize the deliberate judgment of the committee on foreign relations, he felt impelled by a sense of duty to vote against the substitute reported by that committee and in favor of the principles of absolute Chinese exclusion as expressed in the house bill.

mittee and in favor of the principles of absolute Chinese exclusion as expressed in the house bill.

Mr. Call argued against the house bill and the senate substitute and said that he saw trouble in negotiating a treaty with China, allowing the immigration of Chinese into such states as chose to admit them, leaving to the legislatures of the several states the decision of whether the Chinese should be admitted or excluded. What, he asked, was to be the effect of such legislation on the great cotton producing interests of the United States? What was to be the effect of a policy that would exclude half of the human race from the privilege of dealing with this country for cotton fabrics? In an economic point of view, therefore, the bill ought not to pass, but ought to meet the condemnation of the senate and of the whole country.

The hour of 4 o'clock interrupted Mr. Call's speech, as that was the time set for taking a vote.

The vote was taken on the substitute reported from the committee on foreign relations for the house bill, and the substitute was agreed to—yeas 43, nays 14.

Several other amendments were offered but all failed of adoption. The bill as amended was then passed without division, and the title was amended to read: "To Prohibit the Coming of Chinese Persons Into the United States."

A conference with the house was asked, and Messrs. Dolph, Davis and Butler were appointed conferees on the part of the senate addourned.

SPEAKER CRISP DECIDES

Washington, April 25.—The pending question when the house met this morning was the motion made by Mr. Reed, of Maine, on Saturday last to lay on the table the resolution expunging from the record such portions of the speech of Mr. Walker of Massachusetts, which were not uttered on the floor and which reflected on his colthe noor and which reflected on his col-leagues, Messrs. Williams and Hoar.

The republicans refrained from voting and the result was yeas, 6; nays, 138. No quo-rum. A call of the house was ordered.

The call of the house showed that there were 213 members present,, and Mr. Rich-ardson, of Tennessee, offered a resolution for the arrest of absent members by the sergeantal-tarms. Mr. Boutelle made the point of order that it was not in order for the house to send for absentees when on a call it was declared that there was more than a quorum clared that there was more than a quorum present.

After a brief discussion of the rules the point was overruled and then further proceedings under the call were dispensed with and the question recurred on the motion to table the expunging resolution. The motion was rejected—yeas, 5; nays, 155.

Mr. Boutelle moved to recommit the resolution with instructions to the committee on rules to take into consideration the entire subject matter, including the remarks published in The Record by Mr. Walker under leave to print; the remarks of Mr. Boutelle moved to adjourn. Lost—yeas, 10; nays, 163.

Then Mr. Townsend, of Colorado, moved a recess until 5 o'clock. Lost—yeas, 0; nays, 146. No quorum.

Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, moved a call of the house.

Mr. Boutelle rose to another question. This was taken under clause 2 of rule 17, which provides that a call of the house shall not be in order after the previous question is ordered, unless it shall appear upon an actual count by the speaker that a quorum is not present.

The speaker replied that the roll-call had shown that there were but 146 members present.

Mr. Boutelle inquired whether the speaker declined to count as required by the rule. The speaker replied that the count on yea and nay vote showed the presence of but 146 members. No efforts or arguments on the part of Mr. Boutelle reinforced by Mr. Reed could induce the speaker to modify his ruling. He adopted the report of the clerk upon the last vote as conclusive as to the presence of a quorum.

A call of the house having been ordered and 220 members responding further proceedings were dispensed with; and the vote recurry on the motion for a recess. This was let a proposed the proceeding of Mr. Richardson, adjourned.

Since Ravachol's arrest, Very has frequently been threatened with such a dispater. The force of ened with such a disaster. The force of explosion was terrific and widely felt, and an enormous crowd quickly gathered on entering, found Very lying on the floor of the restaurant, in the midst of heaps of debris, groaning with fright and pain. One of his legs had been broken and he was sent to the hospital, where it has been found necessary to amputate his leg. He died shortly after the operation. A grand-daughter of Very was also injured and two ladies living in rooms located over the res-taurant were badly shaken and bruised. Very's wife was not injured, but she has lost her senses and is raving.

Firemen are clearing away the ruins. The damage is almost entirely confined to the building in which Very's restaurant was located. A detachment of troops is keeping It is the general opinion that the explosion was perpetrated mainly to terrorize the jurymen who will be on duty at Ravachol's trial. The police have a theory that the bomb was thrown into the basement of the bunuing through a grating. A policeman who was on duty just out-side the restaurant when the explosion oc-curred was thrown to the pavement by the shock. He states that he saw nothing suspicious. Loze, prefect of police; Goron, chief of the municipal police, and Raynard, secretary of the ministry of the interior, arrived on the scene soon after the exlosion. A quantity of goods lying exposed in front of an adjoining shop were de-stroyed. Three persons have been arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the murderous affair. One of them shouted, "Vive e anarchie," on being taken into custody.

News of the explosion quickly spread throughout the city, creating consternation, especially on the boulevards, where exaggerated reports of the affair were current. Detachments of police hurriedly formed cordon in Boulevard Magenta, on which, at the corner of Rue Lancry, Very's res taurant is located. The Building a Wreck. The cafe is an utter wreck, and not a vestige of a window is visible in the entire vestige of a window is visible in the entire structure. The pavement in the vicinity of the explosion is completely strewn with shattered pieces of charred wood and other portions of the ruined building, and with debris of the furniture, which was hurled from the cafe by the awful force of the explosion. The destruction is complete and the place presents a most appulling appearance. A waiter named Sherot, who was in the cafe when the bomb exploded, escaped with only a slight bruise, but is suffering from the effects of the great check. Savers! pressons who were riding in suffering from the effects of the great shock. Several persons who were riding in a tram car which was passing the building when the explosion occurred, were injured by being struck by pieces of flying glass. Lots have been drawn by persons summoned to act as jurors at the trial of Ravachol. One of the jurors has written to the Figaro complaining that the political importance which has been given to the trial by charging the prisoner with being guilty of an explosion instead of murder, has endangered the lives of all persons concerned in the case. The explosion in Very's cafe has terrorized the jury selected to try Ravachol and officials who are in any way connected with his trial.

A Case Over Which the Judges Are Not Anxious to Preside.

Parls, April 25.—Much interest is manifested in the trial of Anarchist Rayachol, who is charged with having caused the explosion at the residence of Judge Benoit, No 136 Boulevard St. Germain, who presided at the trial of the anarchists at Seine assizes, on April 28, 1891, and the house at the corner of the Rue de Clichy and the Rue de Berlin, the residence of M. Bulet, who conducted the prosecution on that occasion.

The trial is fixed for tomorrow and the demand for tickets for admission to the courtroom has been very active. The desire to hear the proceedings has been somewhat dampened, however, by a statement that appeared yesterday that the friends of Rayachol were plotting to prevent any sentence the court might impose from being carried out. It is not known what course the anarchists will pursue, but it is feared some of them may in some way gain admission to the courtroom and throw a bomb.

Of course, it is hardly probable t such a thing could happen, but so man, ynamite outrages have been perpetrated in s. e of all the precautions of the police that it, public is willing to believe that the anarch is will try any scheme, no matter how deepe te, to prevent Rayachol from being panished. It is certain none of the judges are at all anxi as to preside at the trial as the anarchists have threatened vengeance against the judge who sentences him.

test over the presidential question. Senator Palmer has an unquestioned majority of the state delegates uninstructed for his support, but there is still some movement among certain southern Illinois delegates against any instruction whatever of the delegates to the national convention.

There seems to be little doubt of the spirit of the delegates to give Palmer a cordial endorsement, the only question being whether the delegates will be positively instructed to vote for him in the national convention. Palmer himself has distinctly stated that he will be satisfied with a general endorsement, the delegates being merely instructed to vote as a unit at the Chicago convention for whoever they may deem the most available candidate. Many of his friends, however, refuse to be satisfied with anything less than an instructed Palmer delegation, while the opposition faction will even combat complimentary resolutions, and expunge everything but a direct and positive endorsement of Grover Cleveland.

Neither Turner or Snyder was in uniform. The Macons wore a pretty gray suit, nearly the same as they wore in 1885 and 1886, when Reddy Mack and Billy Giss helped them to many a victory. The uniforms had red trimmings with the red letters across the breast. For five minutes the players mixed indiscriminately in front of the grand stand, then the Macons took the field for practice. For fifteen minutes they thumped the ball around and did some mighty good work.

Atlanta then had her turn and when that was over the bell tapped for the game and the crowd yelled.

The Game Starts.

No such game of ball has been seen in Atlanta since the memorable contest between the Atlantas and Savannahs in '86. It started off with a whoop and hurrah and ended the same way.

Some good old-time kicking was done and the people enjoyed it. Once a big part of the crowd on the bleachers rushed upon the grounds and for a minute it resembled many of the scenes enacted at old Athletic park. The Macon team took the field and presented Bailey, the new pitcher. Long stepped up to the home plate and just as he did Mayor Hemphill arose and tossed a new ball into the diamond. Bailey fixed for a delivery with his left hand and sent the ball over the plate. Long made a swipe at it and missed. The ball came like a shot, and a general grunt went up from the bleachers. But Long has always been lucky and got his base on balls. Hill came up smiling with his best stick and made a long drive into center field. The ball was high and Painter was right under it, and by being there ate up a clean three-base hit.

That catch made Long freeze to first, too.

The crowd saw how rank the decision was and guyed Whalen unmercifully.

In the eighth McIntyre hit clean to Weddige who fielded the ball to Dunn just as McIntyre reached the base. Dunn dropped the ball and Whalen decided McIntyre out. That made the crowd wilder than ever. But Berryhill, who made a two-bagger, went to third. Westlake hit the ball and Whalen called him out much to the dissatisfaction of everybody—no one believing that he was out.

As Westlake made for first Berryhill, what was on third, started for home plate. As ter the ball which Whalen made kill Westlake reached Dunn it was returned to Walton at the home plate. Berryhill was make ing a slide and Whalen said he was out. But no one else said so.

Even the Macon players laughed. All in all it was a great game. Balley is a great pitcher and at first Atlanta did not seem able to touch him, but before it was done Maskrey's boys had piled up ten hits. The two runs were loudly cheered when put on the big blackboard.

Westlake made a good bit to right and started off in a canter. Dooly struck out and then Maskrey came up.

The manager was given a grand reception and he hit the ball out into right hard advancing McIntyre to third. Dooly surprised everybody by striking out. Gagen flew out to Weddige and Schabel died the same death at Dunn's hands, leaving Maskrey on second.

Dunn couldn't touch Gagen and went out on three strikes. Painter got his first on balls and went to second when Gagen gave Bailey the same. Johns made a dandy hit to left and Painter came in.

That gave Macon another run and plenty of applause.

Rirkwood, Ga., April 23.—To Messrs, H. J. ang. Chairman Democratic Committee: T. Hollensbead, B. S. Wright, W. T. Murray, P. N. Sale, A. M. Carpenter, George Patterson, Editor Lincolnton News, Lincolnton, Ga., Gentlemen: I heartily thank you for the confidence implied by your request for my fews on the political situation. Before between the discussion, however, you will insuige me in one or two personal allusions.

1.1 am not now a candidate for office and the approaching elections cannot affect my political status in any way whatever. I have herefore, no possible political or personal interests at stake except such as are common the every citizen of the state.

2.1 am in the fullest sympathy and according the general and laudable purposes for which the Farmers' Alliance was organized. Their principles are my people; their interest is my interest, and their calling my calling. Nor am I a new convert to these views. For nearly twenty years I have urged the organization of the farmers for their own protection, and have attied for the prime objects which called the order into existence. In season and out of meason, in public and private life, for a long series of years and without change or shadow of turning. I have spoken for, written for, and labored for the success of the essential measures which now so deeply concern and opportounly agitate the agricultural and haboring masses of our people. The public seconds prove that no man in this whole union has longer or more consistently and persistently labored for the reforms and the relief which the people need and ought to secure. I allisted in the cause long before the present farmers' war uppn protected privilege and overnmental partiality was declared, and I mentisted for the whole war. I was in the farmers' war uppn protected privilege and overnmental partiality was declared, and I mentisted for the whole war. I was in the farm when it was not popular and when the few who fought with me were in the minority. Through years of discouragement and dispargement, I Find the Right Road First.

Let us now come squarely and fearlessly to the discussion. If we can find the road to relief, I propose, for one, to follow it to the end. But in searching for the right road, let us not be deceived by flaming sign boards placed on the highway by designing hands. In other words, let us not be deluded by the flery declamation of those who are interested in misleading us. One thought I would solemnly impress at the outset—I would hammer it into the very fiber of every farmer's brain in the country. It is this: Our condition is so serious and threatening that we cannot afford to make a mistake, and the only way in which to avoid mistakes is to find the truth; and then to stand by it; and the way to find the truth is to sift the evidence and rely upon established facts and not upon mere theories. Now, in order to recognize truth with certainty, let us lay down a few fundamental propositions to which all will agree, and then bring every suggestion to the test of these maxims.

Summary—Maxims.

Summary—Maxims.

1. Reform or relief must come. If it comes all, through a change of those governmental policies which have produced the rongs from which we seek relief.

2. A change of policies requires a change rulers; and our only way of changing rules is through ballot boxes, by votes.

3. A change of rulers to be effective includes the neccessity of electing by votes a relief way of the relief who have inflicted these wrongs upon the country.

4. There is no hope of electing such a president and such a congress except by the united votes of all the friends of reform.

5. If we can ascertain with certainty what party is responsible for the wrongs of which we complain, we shall have located beyond doubt the enemies of reform and of relief. Locate the men who perpetuated the wrongs and you locate those upon whom it is your Responsible?

One of the most serious complaints is against the national banking system, against its partiality and its incompetency to furnish a sufficient and low are circulating medium. Who imposed this system upon the country? The answer is, a republican house, a republican senate, and a republican president, and in doing this they destroyed your state banking system. I cannot pass this point without briefly contrasting the two systems.

Under the national banking law, one thousand dollars of gold will not pay for a one-thousand dollars of gold will not pay for a one-thousand dollars of gold will not pay for a one-thousand dollars of gold furnish less than one thousand dollars for circulation; whereas, under the state banking system. each thousand dollars of gold furnished the basis for $3,000 in bills, or more than three times as much money for circulation as is possible under the national banking law.

Again. With the national banks, your land is not regarded as security. Under state banking real estate was one of the best of securities.

Second complaint is that the country's ency is concentrated largely at certain one on Wall street and in the money centrals was impossible under the state dng system; because the currency was and largely confined to the limits of the bank in the people needed money.

The was impossible under the state and largely confined to the limits of the bank in the people needed money.

The was a management of the limits of the bank in the people needed money.

The was a management of the limits upon a republican congress and dent the responsibility for that system for the destruction of the state banks.

Destruction of Sliver—Who Struck It

hird and general complaint is that silver been demonetized. Who is responsible this? Who struck down this class of doland dishonored a currincy which had essfully maintained its position in this try for three-quarters of a century? The wer again is that this outrage was commeted by a republican house, senate and ATURAL FRUIT FLAVORS.

A fifth and most just murmur of discontent comes from farmers, producers and intelligent laborers, because of the unjust and discriminating protective tariff, which, like legalized theft, is enriching one class of citizens at the expense of other classes. Why is it that the righteous demands of the Farmers' Alliance and of other industrial organizations for the reform of these inlustrous tariff laws have not been heeded at Washington? It is because the ears of republican lawmakers have been deaf to these appeals for relief. It is because the efforts of tariff reformers in one branch of the congress have been defeated by high republican officials in other branches of the government. If there be any answer to this allegation, let the objector demonstrate its untruth.

Squandering the Public Domain—Who Didit?

A sixth cause of discontent is the stupendous national land grants and subsidies which have enriched gigantic corporations and encouraged extravagance and corruption in high places at Washington. The sole responsibility for this policy also is upon a republican house, senate and president.

The Income Tax—Who Repealed It?

A seventh complaint is that while every

The Income Tax—Who Repealed It?

A seventh complaint is that while every item of property belonging to the farmer and the laborer is subjected to taxation, there is no tax, graduated or otherwise, upon the princely incomes of the rich, who are most able to pay and who receive a larger share of governmental protection without bearing a just portion of the government's burdens. Where rests the responsibility for this condition of affairs? Again the answer is that at au unon the incomes was once imposed, but the law has been repealed by the action of a republican house, a republican senate and a republican president.

Wasting the Surplus in Shameless Extrava-

Wasting the Surplus in Shameless Extravagance.

Another outcry is made by the farmers and the industrial classes against the needless accumulations and extravagant expenditures by the government. Who are the authors of this monstrous imposition upon the country's toilers and producers? Again the answer comes with marvelous monotony that the republican congress and republican president are responsible. During the last congress, when the senate, house and presidency were all controlled by the republicans, they not only expended the $100,000,000 of accumulated surplus, but, in scornful defiance of the people's demands for economy and lower taxes, they loaded us down with still more grievous burdens of increased tariff taxation.

Striking Attitude of the Two Parties—A Strange Spectacle in Georgia. It will be seen, therefore, that in this long list of grievances, every one of them is chargeable directly and solely to the republican party. In every instance, without one exception, the republican party is the author of each and every wrong of which we com-exception, the republican party is the author of each and every wrong of which we complain.

On the other hand, the constant, avowed and only available opponent of that party in all these years was the persistent, resolute and indomitable organized democracy of this union. This is the simple, unvarnished, unanswerable truth. Yet we witness the painful and astounding spectacle in Georgia of a few would-be leaders seeking to mislead our people by the unworthy and untruthful declaration that we have no more to hope for from the democracy than from the hostile republican party. Such a declaration is so absurdly untrue that our honest people will not long be deceived by it.

Election of Senators by the People.

I will not now discuss the proposition to elect United States senators by popular vote; because it requires an amendment to the constitution to accomplish it, and is therefore remote; and, because there is no immediate benefit or damage to the people, in either its adoption or rejection. So far as our present welfare is concerned, it is immaterial whether we be for it or against it.

Government ownership of Rallroad.

We be for it or against it.

Government Ownership of Railroad.

Nor do I propose to discuss at length the demand for government ownership of railrads; because it is wholly impracticable, and even if it could be accomplished it would not bring the relief sought. It would involve the appointment, by central authority, of thousands of agents, and it would result at last in general disaster. Surely the experience of Georgians in the management by the state of one short line of railroad ought to be a sufficient warning against the policy of government ownership of all the railroads. Even when managed by our best and ablest executives before the war, the State road rarely paid, was frequently in debt, and yet transportation over it was more expensive to the people than it is now. And after the war, when that same road was managed by the republican party, it involved the state in debt and ran down to the very verge of wreck and ruin. The only sensible solution of the great problem of transportation is in "the most rigid, honest and just state and national governmental control and supervision."

No Excuse for Desertion Now.

In the light of the serious and undisputed facts enumerated in this letter, I appeal to the dispassionate, sober judgment of our people for one sensible reason or excuse for abandoning the democratic party and trusting our hopes and fortunes and liberties to an untried, untrained and heterogeneous third party.

Does any one answer that the democratic party will not great the ward the state in the democratic party and trusting party. Government Ownership of Railroad.

Does any one answer that the democratic party will not grant the needed relief to the people? Udon what facts does he base such an opinion? The democratic party has not had control of the government for one session or one day in the last thirty years; and in those thirty years of republican rule, every evil of which you complain has taken root and become embodied in our laws as the avowed and permanent policy of republican administration.

administration.

The Flag of Righteous Revolt.

During all that long period, the united democracy has carried the flag of revolt against the republican policies, arraigning its leaders, denouncing its extravagance, its corruptions, and its usurpations—confronting and fighting it in states and nation, until a majority of the states and an overwhelming majority of the people have erlisted under the democratic banner of reform. What possible excuse, therefore, for deserting our flag now when glorious yettory seems within our grasp and when democratic victory means defeat to the authors of all the wrongs of which the people complain.

Still More Vital Reasons for Remaining United.

But commanding as are the considerations above set forth, there are still more momentous reasons for standing unitedly and firmly in the ranks of the democracy which is the true party of the people.

First and paramount among these reasons is the fact that desertion by democrats now, renders more probable the continued supremacy of republicanism in the government, the perpetuation of their hurtful policies and the indefinite postponement of the day of relief.

The Political Hydra: The Force Bill.

With the republican ranks united and dem-United.

The Political Hydra: The Force Bill.

With the republican ranks united and democrats divided, we may lose control of the next house of representatives, as well as of the presidency, and thus render possible the passage of the hydra-headed force bill, with its endless train of evils, the horrors of which no language can exaggerate. In the great and memorable battle against the force bill and for the rights and liberties of our people, there was no difficulty in locating our enemies on the one side and our friends on the other. There were some brave and magnanimous spirits among the republicans who appreciated the enormity of that iniquitious force bill and who revolted against the party which sought to inflict the measureless wrong upon the southern people. But the vast majority of the republican party wrote for spoke for, or labored for the passage of that bill.

Where did the national democracy stand in spoke for, or labored for the passage of that bill.

Where did the national democracy stand in that fearful crisis? There was not a solitary democrat in any state, city, town or country district in this whole union who deserted us in our extremity or who falled to oppose this threatened destruction of the prosperity, tranquility, peace and liberty of the southern people. How then can any southern man, who loves his country, get his own consent to desert our democratic brethren after such an exhibition of fidelity to principle and such devotion to our essential rights?

The southern people are not ingrates. They have never been charged with ingratitude, and I do not believe that they will subject themselves to criticism now by deserting the friends who did not desert us, either in the force bill fight or during the reconstruction reign of terror.

The Road to Relief and the Road to Ruin.

The Road to Relief and the Road to Ruin The Road to Relief and the Road to Ruin.

There is no short or royal road to financial relief, but there is a very short and rough one to political and industrial ruin.

Relief can only come through ultimate and complete triumph over the party, which, for thirty years, has inflicted upon the country, as I have said above, all the evils of which our farmers and the masses of the people complain. This single and only road to governmental relief, although a long one, can and will lead us to success if we press forward with singleness of aim and compact ranks.

But we shall certainly fall and invite defeat and bring to our people still greater financial and political wees, if we now give heed to those who counsel division in our ranks and seek to prejudice our people against the only party which has any prospect of triumph over our enemies.

ins away from the democratic fold assumes a truly fearful responsibility. We may not all algree as to the special methods of relief, but we do agree as to the necessity of relief. Some favor free coinage; some land leans: some saubtreasury plan; some the lending of money by the general government to the states and by states to individuals; some the restoration of banks of issue in the states; some the purchase of United States bonds by treasury notes issued in payment, and some the purchase with greenbacks of a much larger amount of silver buildon. All these plans have their advocates, who earnestly and ably support them. But insistance upon specific plans breeds dissension. On the main issue, however, we are practically agreed.

about the plans and light together to the general cause.

How infinitely more sensible to stop the chimerical efforts of organizing a new party, which insures division and invites defeat. How much more patriotic to rally to the glorious banner of democracy and reform, with the enthusiasm and fidelity and heroism which have made southern men famous, and bear that flag to trinumph in state and nation. The Pit-Falls in Our Front.

I cannot lay down my pen, without one more solemn warning to my friends and countrymen who have contemplated joining the third party movement.

Of course they do not wish to disorganize our agricultural industry and burden it with additional trials by converting again our contented, orderly colored laborers into active and violent politicians and dissatisfied place-hunters. tented, orderly colored laborers into active and violent politicians and dissatisfied place-hunters.

Of course they do not wish to see returned to power and to the control of our state that inglorious mass of ignorance and political mockery from whose deadening clutch we rescued Georgia some twenty years ago.

Of course they do not wish to see our state plunged again into that abyss of politocal woes and financial bankruptcy and social disorders, which for some years after the war filled our minds with apprehension and our hearts with anguish.

Our third party friends would turn with horror from the contemplation of any such direful calamity resulting from their movements; and yet so sure as effect must follow cause, so sure are they courting danger and hurrying us toward appared and sufficient our people to abandon the democratic ark of safety.

Turn back, my countrymen. You cannot afford the risk, It will be too late to turn back when dissensions shall have resulted in our ruin. I am, faithfully, your friend and fellow.

W. L. CALHOUN, Ordinary,

HE'S A "COUNT,"

And Seems to Have Taken Columbus by Storm.

THE DASHING SIR AUBREY CASTLEMAIN

Who Says That He Can Command Thousands of Dollars at a Moment's Notice.

Columbus, Ga., April 25.—(Special.)—The peculiar actions of Sir Aubrey Castlemain have puzzled the good citizens of Columbus in no small degree. The actions of Sir Aubrey, or the count, as he is called, have furnished a very fruitful source of gossip during the past week, and men, women and children have passed much of their time listening to the startling stories of his peculiar conduct and surmising who he is, what he is, and what object he has in view.

Certainly no visitor to Columbus has ever created so much excitement and crowded so many picturesque scenes into so short a time before. Only a week ago the existence of Sir Aubrey was not even suspected, and mow every man in the city has either heard of him or knows him personally. A good many of those who have met him personally are now looking sad and dejected, and when they speak of him they use other titles than the lofty ones which he claims as the hereditary right of his almost royal descent. Opinions of the celebrated visitor's financial standing are as varied as those respecting the wonderful adventures which he tells of. Some gentlemen whose word cannot be doubted claim that they have seen the mysterious stranger with immense rolls of money, and his reluctance to settle the little accounts he has casually run up is a mere fantasy of his lordy brain, which he adopts to make people talk about him and advertise the show which he says he will give at the opera house this week. Many others, however, believe that the much-vanted roil of bills existed merely in the imagination of the beholders, and that titles, princely revenues and exalted relatives in England were all a sort of Claude Melnotte uream evolved from a diseased brain. The Enquirer-Sun publishes the following account of the doings of Sir Aubrey since his arrival in Columbus.

On Monday morning as soon as the titled visitor had recovered from his alleged illness on the train which prevented has talking, and made it necessary to expose the Masonic symbols tattooed on his manly chest, he rushed o main and would pay no drafts drawn by him.

While waiting for the thousands of dollars which his friends in different parts of the country would surely send him, Sir Aubrey did not fail to amuse himself. He visited every part of the city, and at one time he became so infatuated with Columbus that he apparently made up his mind to settle down and perpetuate the noble house of Castlemain in the south. He, however, changed his mind the next day, and announced that he would probably spend the summer months in Canada.

The drive which Sir Aubrey took through the city on Thursday has become celebrated. His carriage was drawn by four horses, with variegated feathers at their heads. On his box besides the driver was a footman in a white coat and high hat, and before him rode an advance courier, who cleared the way for the distinguished visitor. After driving around the city for a time Sir Anbrey decided that he was not creating sufficient sensation, and he armed his courier with an immense horn. He also enlisted the services of a dozen or more street arabs and armed them also with horns, and amidst the fearful din he again commenced his drive.

The beautiful part of the show was the drive.

The beautiful part of the show was the expression of lofty disdain with which Sir Aubrey gazed upon the plebians who gath-Aubrey gazed upon the plebians who gathered upon the sidewalks to see him pass. Every half hour or so he ordered his coachman to stop, and then the footman, hat in hand, approached the carriage door, and after a brief consultation the equipage would be driven to a barroom, where Sir Aubrey refreshed himself, and then the drive would be continued.

On Thursday Sir Aubrey found so many neople waiting for him who wanted to handle one of his money that he crossed over the per and has since then been enjoying the host lities of Phenix City. It is claimed by vely, however, that he will be back to give als show Monday night.

Rome, Ga., March 26, 1802.—I have read with delight "The Farm and Fireside," the late volume of sketches by Bill Arp, descriptive of southern domestic life. It contains the best specimens of the genial wit and philosophy of this most admirable of American humorists. The reader becomes absorbed at the beginning and is unwilling to lay the book down until the last one of the short, delightful sketches has been perused, and he feels more than repaid for the time and price expended. A copy of this beautiful and charming volume should be in every southern household.

A Very Valuable Lot, 45x90 Feet On Pryor Street.

JUST OPPOSITE the courthouse. A 20-foot alley runs from Pryor west along the entire south line, making the lot accessible and capable of being thoroughly ventilated and lighted. Here is the place to build stores and offices. The old station house has dropped into hands that will properly improve and beautify it. The stables on the opposite side are now giving way to progress, and soon the present enterprising owner will run up a splendid elght-story house visavite the magnificent Kiser block that will rival any structure in the south. Cast your eyes up and down Pryor street. Millions of dollars have already been spent on the street, and yet the work is hardly begun. Pryor today has no equal in Atlanta, grander possibilities belong to Pryor than any street in this city. Doubless a very large sum of money will be expended at once in enlarging the courthouse, which is just opposite this lot. Business houses are in great-demand right now. On this block can be had men that are able and willing to pay liberal rents for first-class city stores or offices. REMEMBER the linfux of capital and population causes a constant, steady increase in Atlanta real estate values.

Orime and Lynch Law. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat is a stal-wart republican organ, but it has opinons of its own, and it stands up for them. re is its reply to an eastern criticism

Is is a notorious fact, for instance, that in the last three years over a hundred persons have been killed in New York, and only eight of the murderers have paid the penalty of their crime. The judges say that there is a growing disposition on the part of juries to acquit prisoners on legal quibbles, and that offenses of all kinds are increasing by reason of such laxity. Some of the most revolting murders of recent years have occurred in New England, and few of the guilty parties have been convicted and punished. The failures of justice are more frequent than they ought to be in all parts of the country, but it certainly does not become the east to sneer at the west in that relation. A Financial Suggestion.

The Springfield Republican gives place in its editorial columns to a synopsis of a farmer's letter in The Raleigh News and Observer advocating the state banking

This North Carolina farmer sees only one remedy for the south, and that is for this section to be furnished with loanable capital in such quantity that the farmer worthy of credit may always borrow at 3 per cent when his necessities require it. He does not think that inflation would bring it. He rejects all the schemes which have been proposed, because he does not want a currency that would have a tendency to drift to the money centers of the east. What he wants is a currency with a limited sphere of circulationa state bank currency redeemable in law ful money of the United States. This state currency, he thinks, would stay at home and be available for domestic needs not taking the place of other current now in existence, but supplementing it so that the farmer will be on a financial level with the merchant and the manufacturer in the great money centers. Commenting on this idea, The Repub lican says: There is, of course, room for two opinion as to the practicality or efficiency of the remedy this farmer proposes. He is by no means alone in the demand that state banks be given a free field, under proper safe-guards. It is not improbable that this de-mand would receive nearly unanimous support in most parts of the south. The argu ments which he urges in its favor are famil-iar enough to his fellow farmers from South arolina to Texas, and are generally accept-Carolina to Texas, and are generally accepted by them. They have an idea that northern financial interests would oppose this revival of state banks as it opposes inflation and free coinage, and in truth there are reasons why this step should be taken with great caution, if at all. But the significant fact is that this state bank idea should have the hold it has, and should be such a rival of these services to the state of the services the state of the stat these serious financial vagaries. In this fact is evidence that a rational remedy for this disadvantage under which the farmen labor will be as welcome as an irrational one which is a challenge to our financiers to fin

The fact that this paper, opposing the free coinage of silver as it does, is vet willing to admit the disadvantage under which our farmers labor, and invite what it calls a rational remedy is encouraging. And it will be noted that The Republican does not oppose the state banking idea. It thinks that a step in that direction should be taken with great caution, and that is the way to look at it. We want state banks, but we want sound ones, so hedged about by judicious safeguards that there will be no danger of wildcat banks.

The North Carolinian hit the nail on the head when he said that we need a local currency that will stay at homecurrency issued by banks that will be under no chartered inhibition against loaning money to farmers on their lands. the only security they have to offer. The more it is considered, the more feasible and satisfactory this idea will appear.

In Virginia and North Carolina.

In Georgia the democratic majority is large enough to give a good deal of rope has been so solid heretofore that few democrats, except those who are constantly in touch with events, can appreciate the strain which has recently been put on the organization in this state. A great many refuse to believe that the nomination of Mr. Cleveland would precipitate a division in Georgia which would be large enough to make the result doubtful.

In Virginia, a very different state of affairs exists. Circumstances have compelled the Cleveland boomers to trim their sails considerably. The people have put them on notice that they must proceed with circumspection. Even the Cleveland politicians feel that there is a point beyond which it would be fatal to go. There is no such margin for picturesque folly in Virginia as there is in Georgia It was only by a small majority in 1888 that Mr. Cleveland carried the Old Do minion. The democrats escaped then as by the skin of the teeth. Since that time, there has been more light shed on the silver question-the democrats have made free coinage a pressing issue, and the opposition to Mr. Cleveland has been greatly aggravated. Mr. Cleveland has strong friends there, as he has everywhere, but they perceive that he will not be an available candidate. They see that this lack of availability applies to Virginia in a more important Beasure than to New York. The alliancemen of Virginia are democrats, but they regard the free coinage of silver as a democratic principle, and they will resent Mr. Cleveland's nomination by voting against him. The Cleveland leaders have found this out and they are not making any serious effort to secure Cleveland delegations in the various counties We think this is the highest wisdom. The electoral vote of Virginia is as neces sary to the democrats as the vote of New York. Men of all shades of opinions perceive this, and the result is that the "bullof-the-woods" method of carrying on the Cleveland campaign in Virginia has practically ceased. A large majority of the delegates thus far selected are in favor of Hill as between Cleveland and Hill, but many prefer a new man. In the Chicago convention Virginia will cast its vote for Hill. In North Carolina, the Virginia situation is duplicated, though the opposition to Cleveland is more violent and the danger of democratic defection more serious. The Cleveland leaders have been more uncompromising than in Virginia, and the result is that the farmers have become disgusted. Concerning literary or newspaper syndicates The Boston Advertiser says: "Syndicating Is going out of fashion in the New York dailies. Of late it has been impossible to sell serials of any but eminent authors, and even Bret Harte had to go begging before he found a place. The dailies of New York are using original matter almost entirely, and that is to be the rule elsewhere. For although stories and articles may still be used in common by papers a thousand miles apart, many edi tors have come to the conclusion that it is not well to be one of forty or fifty papers using the same literary matter the same day. But what then? 'So long as periodicals are pub-lished,matter to fill them will have to be written and sold. By limiting the number of pa pers using such production, the number of ar-ticles will necessarily increase, which will more than balance the probable lessening of prices. And so no one is likely to be serious ly affected by the inevitable changes in syndi-cate methods.''' Whitelaw Reid, of The New York Tribune, says that he has patronized syndicates, but prefers exclusive matter. He thinks that syndicate articles decrease to a certain extent the individuality of a newspa-per, and this is a necessity to its influence and its prosperity.

In reply to the extravagant claims made by me of the Cleveland men who attended the emocratic rally in Augusta, Wednesday night, some of the cieveiand men wao attended the democratic rally in Augusta, Wednesday night, The Chronicle says:

"For the friends of Mr. Cleveland who went there to force a Cleveland ticket, to claim a majority of Cleveland sentiment in the county is not justified by the facts developed in Wednesday night's meeting. For two days before the meeting there were editorials in The Evening News demanding that a Cleveland ticket be elected. We do not know what personal effort there was to secure a Cleveland crowd at the meeting, but we do know that certain parties took sufficient interest in the matter to prepare a Cleveland ticket and urge its passage. In opposition to this there was not an editorial word in favor of a Hill delegation and no attempt to drum up a Hill crowd. Had the issue been squarely made it might have proven even more entertaining than it did for the friends of Mr. Cleveland But the issue was not raised. The unity and harmony of the party was maintained and it is entirely unnecessary to continue discussion of an issue that was neither decided nor raised."

The Columbus Sunday Herald says: "The president of the Muscogee County Alliance informs The Herald that the published report that the county alliance had endorsed the third party is untrue. This is authoritative, as the president presided over the meeting at which the endorsement of the third party was said to have been made. But it was reserved for "Mikado"—that masterpiece of comic composition, where Gilbert's matchless wit is skillfully linked with the Sir Arthus Sullivan prolific ability as a composer—to hit the bull's eye of popular enthusiasm.

The whole show was a roaring, rattling success—not a slow moment or a discordant note, but the special honors of the piece fell to Deshon as Koko, Amsden as Poo-Bah, Nelson as Nanki Poo and Miss Vincent as Yum Yum. The other "two little girls," Koko's "second and third ward," as he facetiously called them, were well sung by Misses Douglass and Burton.

Mr. Deshon stuck closely to Gilbert's bright satirical libretto and whenever he added anything it made a hit. Mr. Amsden's Poo-Bah was a work of art and his deep bass voice was richer than usual. "There is no way of sizing up the crop grown in Georgia last year, no way of as certaining how the merchants are manipulating the spring trade, and no way of siz ing up the decrease in acreage, if any, this rear on the cotton farms."
"What is the surplus of last year's crop?"

"About a million bales."
"Won't that keep the price down and ontinue to block the market despite the outlook for a reduction in next year's

"Oh, no. Hardly so, I think. You see there is already a pretty firm and substan-tial intimation gone abroad that the crop is going to be reduced. The figures will be nt out from Washington next month, and I feel confident that they will show a considerable reduction. This will be sure to make cotton go up instanter."

"Will it stay up?"
"Oh, well, if the acreage is really shown off by actual statistics there is no doubt in the world but that the market next fall will open most favorably. I believe already that cotton will go to 7 or 8 cents before this season closes on account cents before this season closes on account of these reports of a reduction."

"Is the acreage being reduced here in Georgia to a considerable extent?"

"Yes. I know several counties that have reduced the acreage and I have reason to believe the farmers generally throughout the state are cutting down, though it is utterly impossible for anybody to estimate it now."

"What about fertilizers?" "I know to a certain fact that the sales of fertilizers in Georgis this year are way off. This will act with great results to-wards cutting down the yield of cotton, for there's no use talking about it, Georgia farmers cannot raise as much cotton without guano as they can with it. Hence the crop will be cut shorter still, and so much the better.

"How is trade in Atlanta?"

"Hard to tell. Some merchants seem to be doing quite as much trade as ever in the spring, some complain, and some give glowing accounts. There is a greater diversity of opinion about the spring trade than I ever saw before here."

Colonel Peck states that there will be a third party rally here on the third Saturday in May.

Lexington, Ga., April 25.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of the democratic party will meet here the first Tuesday in May to select delegates to Atlanta and to complete their organization. A number of good speakers will doubtless be on hand.

A meeting of the advocates of the people's party is advertised to meet here on the 14th of May, to discurs men and measures. They are as yet without a satisfactory leader, and are somewhat undecided what to do.

The democracy of grand old Ogiethorpe will prove true and steadfast, and will come out with flying colors.

This was considered rather strange, but Cunningham was not sus pected of misappropriating the funds; but when questioned about the deficit, he said that the members were not paying their dues. At the last election of the lodge, Mr. E. A. Hill was elected collected Cunningham's place, and was instructed to compel the members to pay their dues. At a subsequent meeting, Mr. Hill reported that the members were not in arrears, and an investigation showed that Cunningham failed to return $550 to the lodge which he had collected. Mr. Pat Calhoun returned yesterday afternoon on the vestibule from New York.

He would not discuss the railroad situation. He came down to be present at the Scotch-Irish convention, he said, before which he makes an address.

"The ticker is telling all I could say about the railroad situation," he remarked.

The Richmond and Danville may fight against giving up the $30,000 insurance money on the Macon depot and against surrendering the $800,000 in steamship bonds held in escrow, but for some reason it is rendering the $500,000 in steamship bonds held in escrow, but for some reason it is believed rather generally that Judge Speer will eventually make the Richmond and Danville hand over. As was observed yesterday: "The Terminal people will find that dealing with Judge Speer is different from dealing with a railroad president."

A special dispatch received by The Constitution from Savannah last night says: "General E. P. Alexander has informed President Comer that he will not be a caudidate for re-election as director of the Central and that he will give the new management his continued support. A BURGLAR IN A BEDROOM-

He Choked the Wife While the Husband

A burglar created consternation in the boarding house, No. 15 Houston street, between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He first tried the door of the landlady's room and aroused her. Mrs. Slater called her son and called to some boarders up stairs, but they did not hear her. The burglar slipped away noiselessly, turned off the gas in the hall and went up to the second floor, and turned the gas off there. He kept quiet for half an hour and then raised a window opening on a veranda and stepped inside. This room was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Richardson. Both were asleep. They had left the gas burning low, and the burglar turned that jet off. He was taking the gold buttons out of a shirt when Mrs. Richardson awoke. She thought it was her husband, and asked him why he had turned out the gas.

The burglar sprang to the bedside, caught her by the throat and ordered her to keep quiet or he would kill her. She did not struggle, and the burglar supposed she was unconscious. He turned to go through Mr. Richardson's pockets, when Mrs. Richardson nudged her husband and aroused him. He spoke and his wife answered.

At this the burglar jumped through the window and ran down stairs and through the back yard. Another boarder, Mr. Robbins, who had been awakened, ran out with his pistol and fired in the direction the burglar interpart and suppared the cuff buttons were all that he got. The cuff buttons were all that he got. Mrs. Bichardson could not tell the man's color, but says his hands were soft and suspects that he is white. He wore rubber sandals, which accounts for his noiseless movements through the house.

Mrs. Richardson was unnerved by the excitement, and was quite ill yesterday.

The Order of Railway Conductors Will Pienic May 5th.

The opening picnic of this season will be that of the Order of Railway Conductors, and a great one it promises to be.

The conductors will enjoy their annual picnic at Maddox Park, on the Atlanta and Florida road, next Tuesday, May 5th.

It will start the ball rolling right merrily—will set the pace, so to speak. It will be equal to any of the festive occasions that will follow during the summer.

The special committee on arrangements which has charge of the conductors picnic has agreed upon the place and date and will meet in a few days to arrange a programme for the day.

The gentlemen of the committee say that the picnic will be the largest one that has ever been given under the auspices of the Order of Railway Conductors.

A band has been secured to furnish music for the picnickers and a dancing pavilion is already in readiness for those who desire to indulge in Tersichorean delight.

Maddox Park is in Clayton county, about sixteen miles south of the city, on the Atlanta and Florida road. It is one of the finest sites for a picnic anywhere near Atlanta, with its splendid groves and springs of clear, sparkling water. A special train will be run out to Maddox Park in the morning and another will leave the city early in the afternoon, to accommodate those who cannot go out in the morning.

The conductors and their friends are anticipating a grand time on May 5th.

Of the Alliance Officials in Birmingham Has Political Significance.

COLONEL PEEK TAKES A HOPEFUL VIEW, to at Once Tumble Into the Third Party.

The circular calling for a meeting of the presidents and executive boards of the state alliances, at Birmingham, on May 3d, has not yet been received in Atlanta.

But the third party leaders say they were not at all surprised at the announce-ment that one had been issued. In fact, they knew it was coming and they view it as a movement which will result in a big victory for the third party.

Colonel Peek said he had not heard that such a circular had been issued when he was asked about it yesterday morning, but he was not at all surprised. "Colonel, what can be the object of that meeting?" was asked. With a big, broad smile the third party congressional possi-meeting?" was asked. With a big, broad smile the third party congressional possibility replied:

"Why, it is for the purpose of going right into the third party in a lump. Of course it is. That's what they will certainly do."

And the happy manner in which Colonel Peek smiled showed that he believed what he said.

If that is the purpose the ring ledders in it may be badly fooled.

In most of the states, as in Georgia, the presidents and executive committees are still true to their trusts and will fight all attempts to deliver the alliance to the third party to the bitter end.

The Birmingham meeting is evidently the work of President L. L. Polk and he apparently expects to make big capital out of it for the third party.

Colonel Livingston will no doubt be there to resist any attempt that might be made to commit the alliance people through their executive boards and state presidents to the third party. A majority of the members of the executive committee of the Georgia alliance are still democrats and will stand in line with the executive committee of other states against committing the alliance to the St. Louis platform.

The greatest and most profound secrecy has been enjoined upon all the members as to what transpires at the Birmingham meeting—and that it is for political purposes is plain.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The stock market today was again quiet and narrow, one with small fuctua-tions even among the leading stocks, and, while there was a general bearisa feeling in the room, Northern was a general bearisu feeling in the room, Northern Pacific preferred was the only really weak point in the list, and the only really atrong spot was Hocking Walley, both common and preferred, rising over 1 per cent on light transactions. Richmond and West Point accurities were still more quiet than last week, and except in Reading thore was no feature among Coal atooks, late rumors having no foundation and few believers. Grangers, however, were prominent, as sund, in the market, and inclined to droop, but failed to score any marked change during the day. The comping was in all cases lower with exceptional losses to score any marked change during the day. The opening was in all cases lower with exceptional losses attending to % per cent. The pressure upon Northern Pacific preferred immediately made itself felt, while Pacific preferred immediately made itself felt, while strength in Hocking Valley stocks was equally pronounced, but the general list followed the first named and fractional losses were the rule. Selling, however, never reached large proportions, and prices rallied toward noon, and, while extreme duliness marked dealings after that time, there was a slow but steady appreciation in value, which, as a rule, wiped out early losses with some additional gains. The only features of late trading were a sudden rally in Lackawanna from 167% to 159%, and a slow and steady drop in Missouri Pacific, which finally brought it below the level of all other stocks, and it stands alone this evening in showing a material decline for the day. Boom traders held aloof awaiting the outcome of the movement of gold, while the announcement that Room traders held aloof awaiting the outcome of the movement of gold, while the announcement that Wednesday would be half holiday caused some hestation in trading. The market finally closed dull but beady to firm, despite some realizations in the last bour, but final changes are in all cases immaterial, except in Missouri Pacific, which is down 1½ per cent-Bales, listed, 208,000 shares; unlisted, 49000.

KEW YORK, April 25.—The market here opened with some long stocks selling and the bears took the offerings during the first half hour, but after that they again began pounding the market and singled out Northern Pacific preferred as the main point of attack. This stock yielded easily, but as the short interest has increased very largely of late, it may rally sharply when the bears begin to cover. A small shipment of gold is announced and the fear of further shipments helped to demoralize the list. Still, taken all in all, the market acted stronger than was generally expected. The reason of the present outward movement in gold is caused firstly by the big sales of securities on the other side. Then it must also be noted that the foreign trade statement for March shows the largest imports in the history of the country, exceeding $5,000,000 of the previous heavy import of April, 1891, when goods were shipped to this country in anticipation of the McKinley law. This in itself shows that business in this country is flourishing, that sithough the Granger roads are not carrying as much grain, still the earnings keep up very well, as the general merchandise carried is very large. Reading held fairly firm, the Philadelphia holders sold a good deal of it. The March statement is to come out shortly and is expected to be very good. Coal raises are very stendy and are about to be advanced again. Tomorrow's market will depend largely upon European sentiment. If we get any encouragement from that side the market will rally on the short interest here. NEW YORK, April 25.—The market here opis also were only 7,000 bales, and this was construed an unfavorable feature; indicating the probable con stance of the strike and the libelihood that the de-met by some very large buying orders, and before i o'clock prices were back to Saturday's closing figures. The resection led to about all the selling that the situation justifies at the moment, and the recovery evidences in a remarkable degree the fresh strength that seems to have come into speculation of late. Without disappointing advices from Liverpool tomorrow the reaction the market has had seems to be all that is justified at the moment. New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 4,600 bales. During the afternoon the market became slightly easier, closing finally 4 points below Saturday's figures and 8 points below the highest prices toncaed today. Cable dispatches advising the probable continuance of the Lancashire lock-out until the Whitsuntide holidays were the cause of most of the selling during the afternoon here. A considerable short interest has been created today, and the progress of any further decline will in consequence be necessarily slow. Receipts at the interior towns of St. Lonis, Memphis and Augusta are 1,136 bales, against 1,574 bales last year. If hardly seems probable that the week's receipts will be less than Saturday's estimate of 50,000 bales.

NEW YORK, April 25—Liverpool although opening higher came to us at a decline of over 2-84d, a part of which, however, was recovered before the close mainly under the inspiration of the news from this side where, shortly after the opening, a rally took place almost to Saturday's best prices. Throughout the day the trading has been very nerrous, and the market has frequently changed a few points on the smallest possible business. There have been endless reports as to the short time in Lancashire, and it is still undecided when the milks will start un again. Several of our friends basicas. Intere have been endiess reports as to the short time in Lancashire, and it is still undecided when the mills will start up again. Several of our friends tell us that there is talk of the stoppage being prolonged; others say that a day or two longer will see business going on as before. The reference to the yarn and cloth market is still as it was—more encouraging than it was at the beginning of the month. It looks as if things were shaping themselves to do better in the textile industry over there. On this side there is nothing in the developments. Waters are still high in certain parts of the Mississippi valley, but no immediate danger is threatened now, nor do we think, even with overflows, any serious consequences would follow. The market has been freely offered all day long by people who believe that the advance is too early. To us the position looks stable, though there is no bull arguments to apply. On the other hand, we see no reason for any weakness where supplies should grow smaller from day to day, as must accessarily be the case till we governing factor.

CHICAGO, April 25.—According to reports the weather conditions continue unfavorable and very backward, both at home and abroad. The English markets were strong and higher. No. 3 red winter sold at 3c premium over May. There were some trades between the brokers and shippers which were not made public. The better qualities are still held at a high premium and hard to obtain. The speculative trade was the lightest for some time. There seemed to be a great scarcity of orders and a disinciliation by local traders to do much. The long delay in obtaining the full report of the visible supply is the principal cause of inactivity of speculators. A broker sold about 500,000 bushels May corn, afterward giving up the name of Boyden & Co. Oats were firm, a little more than ordinary amount of interest was noticeable. The provision market was slightly firmer, without any noticeable feature. Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Each and every garment that is ordered in our house goes through a careful course of cutting, trimming and making, and here is where the art comes in. To know just what kind and style of Coat looks the best on this or that shaped man. To select the proper trimmings for the goods, see that they are well matched, and improve the general appearance of the garment when finished. Then the cutting comes, and there is where the art comes in. A man that thoroughly understands his trade. Not a school cutter, but one who has been raised from the bench up; one that understands every detail, and who can pick a flaw in the tailoring of a garment at sight. He not only can cut you a perfect-fitting garment, but the style and expression is there. A thorough cutter of this kind has no trouble to select thorough tailors, men that understand their business. We have just such a cutter. He has employed just such tailors. He has employed a trimmer of years' experience who has exquisite taste. With people of this kind back of us with all the advantages possible to secure choice goods at the lowest prices, why can we not please you? Well, we can. Just give us a trial. That is all we ask. We can please you not only in style, fit and workmanship, but in PRICES. See our line of $20 and $25 Suitings. Our $5 and $6 Trouserings. They are winners.

GOVERNOR TILLMAN AT HIS HOME.

And There Is Met by Governor Sheppard Lively Speaking and Red-Hot Times in Edgefield.

Edgefield, S. C., April 25.—(Special.)—As Edgefield is the home of both Governor Tillman and ex-Governor Sheppard, the meeting here today incited much interest all over the state. Most of the speakers arrived last night. A large crowd of Tillmanites met the train and carried Governor Tillman on their shoulders from the cars to a carriage. About two thousand people were on the grounds today, sand people were on the grounds today. At 10:45 o'clock the procession started from the courthouse, led by the Edgefield brass band, which is famous for its entirely original marie. tirely original music. In fact, they manufacture tunes and notes while you wait.

The place selected for the speaking is already conspicuous in South Carolina his-tory, it being the same spot where Gary and Butler first unfurled the banner of true democracy in 1876, and by their fiery berlain and republican misrule. The meeting today was not, in some respects, un-

The red shirts were not there, but the men who wore them were, and a deepset determination stamped every brow. On the stand were Governor Tillman and ex-Governor Sheppard, Colonel J. L. Orr. Hon. J. E. Tindal, General J. L. Mc Laurin, Colonel L. W. Youmans, Colonel W. P. Murphy, General H. L. Farley and

At exactly 11 o'clock, prayer was offered by Rev. A. B. Watson. Major Ernest Gary then introduced, in very flattering words, as the first speaker. Governor Tillman.

His excellency said he was born in Edgefield and had lived there all his life. "Sir Walter Scott," he continued, one of his novels, gives a history of Rob Roy and his famous band of outlaws. On account of that patriot's resistance to the king's oppression, he was outlawed, and efforts were made to capture him and have him put to death. To escape detection, he was forced to change his name and ache was forced to change his name and acknowledge fealty to another clan. On one occasion he returned home in disguise. He was accosted by some of the king's troops, who asked his name, and, like a lion at bay, he swept from his face the disguise and exclaimed: 'I'm a freeman. My foot is on my native heath, and my name is McGregor.' And I say to these opponents of mine that I am B. R. Tillman, and hurl defiance in their teeth. (Tremendous cheering.)

"I have been reared among you. I ask any man has known me to do anything or mean. (Cries of "No! No!") I har today as a candidate, and ask you re-elect me. ("We'll do it!") overnor Tillman contended that even enemies had to acknowledge his adnistration had been a good one. He ade some pointed references to different lases of state politics, and said he fabred the three-dollar poll tax. Continuing, he said:

ored the three-dollar poll tax. Continuing, he said:
"My opponents even claim I have lowered he price of cotton. (Laughter.) They must want to ride my horse mighty bad. (Laughter.) They are using the same old straw that Earle threshed. (Laughter.) The other day at Greenville Mr. Sheppard read from a table of figures to show that my administration had been more extravagant than any preceding one. I ask Governor Sheppard if he still stands by what he said." Sheppard—"Yes."

Sheppard—"Yes."
Tillman—"Then you uttered what was alse." (Great excitement. Cheers for Tillman.)
Sheppard—"I got them from your letters."
Tillman—"Here is the official record. You can't dodge it. By the gods you must stand up to the rack." (Great laughter.)

Governor Tillman then went on to show that he was utterly powerless to carry out certain measures unless a legislature was elected to back him. He said he had tried home to reduce their salaries but beto get them to reduce their salaries but before God he couldn't persuade them that they could live on less than $5 per day.
Governor Tillman also paid his kindest regist to Coossw. He said he wanted a lature in sympathy with himself and obedient to the people. "Accepting that free pass," he continued, "hurt me. And if I had followed my wife's advice I wouldn't have taken it." (Cheers. Cries, "No, it didn't hurt you."

"I am not a member of the Baptist church who drinks and gambles," continued the governor:

"You know and he knows that compared a honesty, intelligence, character and virue he is not my equal. (Cheers.)
"But I want to get back to my Piedmont antton, Mr. Orr. Who is Orr that he hould compare me in such disgraceful inguage to W. H. Wallace. He voted or a negro for justice of the state supreme ourt. He also kept a negro in office over one-legged confederate soldier. Not only hat, but more, he has filled a republican dice himself." (Excitement. Loud cheering.)

Governor Tillman closed his speech by aking the usual primary. From the hands hat were held up, he had at least three-ourths of the audience. He was the repient of many flowers when he took his eat. It is thought here that Governor cillman's speech which consumed two ours was one of the ablest he has ever

The next speaker of course was ex-Governor Sheppard. He said:

"Since '76 I have received numerous tokens of regard at your hands and if there has ever been a solitary spot on my record as a man, I don't know it. And whoever says that he is my superior in personal integrity states what is not true. (Applause.)

"It is my purpose to conduct this campaign so that it will be a pleasure to support the nominees of the democratic party. (Cheers.)

(Cheers.)

The figures used by me at Greenville were put in print by him and signed by his own name. (Cheers.)

"Who is guilty of the misrepresentation? He or I? (Cries of "Tillman.")

"It has been told that I am president of bank. Well, I carried over lots of you boys last winter and that's the way to tell whether I am a friend to the farmer or lot. (Cheers.)

The next speaker was the silver-tongued orator of Piedmont, Colonel J. L. Orr, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Sheppard ticket. He said: "It does not matter which candidate is elected Edge-field will have the governor." (Laughter.) Orr jumped on Tillman about agricultural hall and received a good deal of applause. He reiterated that he was proud of being president of a factory.

"Governor Tillman is hiding behind the farmers because he can't stand the fire. (Applause.) The man who arrays class against class is no friend to anybody. (Applause.) He thinks he is in the farmers' movement and you are not in it. (Laughter.) Governor Tillman does not stand on the alliance platform and you know it." ("Yes he does.")

Tillman—"I never dodged anything at Greenville."

Orr—"Governor Tillman is opposed to the alliance demands and he won't deny it."

Tillman—"I do deny it." (Cheers for Tillman.)

Colonel W. Perry Murphy, Adjutant General Farley and Colonel Dixon, who wants to be adjutant general, closed the meeting with short speeches.

Governor Sheppard, Colonel Youmans and Colonel Murphy are speaking to serenaders tonight, and judging from the martial blasts of that same Edgefield band, they are making Rome and Ben Tillman howl.

they are making Rome and Ben Tillman howl.

Mr. Frank Chapman, who has all day been under the impression that the meeting wasn't lively enough, proceeded tonight with a six-shooter to practice on Mr. Ransom Padgett as a target. He seemed anxious to sustain Edgefield's unsullied reputation, but he says he was too drunk to shoot straight, as he only succeeded in puncturing Mr. Padgett through the hand. They have made friends, however, and are just now enjoying "moonshine."

Your correspondent has a pocket full of goat feet as mementoes of today's fight. They were given to me, however, to send to the managing editor of the "greatest paper on earth," as many Carolina admirers term it.

YOUNG BOWDEN'S BAD BREAK. He Skips, It Is Charged, with His Employ-

Preserve Money, and Is Caught.

Daniel Bowden, the son of one of the oldest residents of Hapeville and that section, left the city day before yesterday.

He carried with him between sixty and seventy dollars belonging, it is charged, to Dr. Amos Fox.

Yesterday he was caught at Braswell and today will be brought back in the custody of an officer to face the charge of larceny after trust.

For some time young Bowden has been employed by Dr. Fox to attend to his farm, a large and splendid one near Hapeville. The young man was entrusted with the entire management of affairs. The temptation proved too strong, it seems, and Bowden is claimed to have gone wrong.

He sold all the produce off the place and the money was invariably turned over to Dr. Fox. A few days ago it was suspected that all was not straight and the doctor investigated the supposed crookedness of his employe.

Day before vesterday young Bowden sold vestigated the supposed crookedness of his employe.

Day before yesterday young Bowden sold a large amount of wood amounting to more than sixty dollars and that, it appears, was the last seen of him.

The matter was reported at police head-quarters and Chief of Detectives Wright and Captain Crim went to work on the case. Yesterday afternoon they located the muchly wanted young man at Braswell and he was there put under arrest.

An officer will be sent for Bowden today and he will be brought back to Atlanta. The young man belongs to a very prominent family and his friends think that he will come out of his present scrape straight.

THE BISHOP WILL COME.

Dr. Fitzgerald Will Remove Here as Soon as Convenient. Bishop Fitzgerald, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will remove to Atlanta at an early date. the weekly meeting of the Methodist minis-ters yesterday and a committee was apcorrespond with the bishop and learn when it will be convenient for him to come to Atlanta. When he does come a formal reception will be tendered him.

Bishop Fitzgerald joined the Georgia conference upon entering the ministry. He was transferred from Georgia to the Pacific conference. Then he came back to North Carolina. He was editor of The Nashville Christian Advocate for eleven years and was elected bishop at the general conference held in St. Louis in 1890.

Bishop Fitzgerald is an able preacher and a man of lovable character.

His churchmen are glad that he will make his home in Atlanta. It is supposed that his work will lie cheffy in this section of the south but his conferences will be fixed up by a committee next month. The bishop will be in Atlanta about half the year. THE PONCE DE LEON SALE.

ant Day Generally.

Yesterday about two hundred people went out to attend the sale of real estate on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The sale was conducted by S. W. Goode & Co.

It was a pleasant day and a jolly crowd.

The "Song of the Boulevard" was well rendered by Colonel English, the Kentucky auctioneer; the Fourth Battalion band enlivened the crowd with music and light livened the crowd with music and light refreshments were served.

The only lot offered was No. 7, of the plat, and after dwelling on the bids it was knocked down to W. H. Phelps at $2,808.

This lot fronted the Boulevard and is a choice home site.

The owner's idea was to sell alternate lots and let homes be built and thus enhance the value of the other lots.

The price realized was an advance on the former cost, but not sufficient to induce the owner to sell the others.

This property is very desirable and is well located.

Certain Facts About "Alaska"

Are Well Worth Considering, When You Compare the Various Kinds of Refrigera-tors Offered to You. The qualities sought for in a refrigerator are preservation of perishable food and an economical use of ice.

The economical use of ice depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

The principal causes of decay in meats and fruits are dampness and varying temperature, causing the expansion and contraction of tissues, which hasten decay; hence a dry atmosphere and uniform temperature conduce mosphere and uniform temperature conduce to their preservation.

These results can be obtained only by a perfect circulation of the air in the refrigerator, and its condensation in the ice chamber.

The Alaska is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitable chickensed.

and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained.

Most refrigerators are so constructed that vapors from various kinds of food are chilled to bead drops of water within the provision chamber. Hence such refrigerators are always damp and deleterious to health.

The Alaska, by its perfect system of warm and cold-air flues, allows nature's principle, that warm air rises and cold air falls, to work in a more complete manner than any other refrigerator built.

The ice rests on a corrugated, galvanized iron rack, which is so constructed as to leave an air passage under the iron.

The warm, damp air in the provision chamber rises through the flues at each end of the ber rises through the flues at each end of the ber rises through the flues at each end of the lee chamber, comes in contact with the lee at the central opening in the lid flue, becomes codder and drops under the ice rack, where all moisture is condensed, and falls through the central opening under the ice into the provision chamber, cold and dry. No other system keeps the air as long in contact with the ice as the Alaska does, consequently the Alaska does its work more thoroughly than any other refrigerator.

Alaska does its work more thoroughly than any other refrigerator.

In the ALASKA no vapors are allowed to remain, but, by a perfect circulation of air, they are drawn through the flues into the ice chest and condensed there.

By thus removing the vapor all odor is removed—for the odor is in the vapor—and dry, moved—for the odor is in the vapor—and dry, pure, cold air falls into the provision chamber. The provision chamber of the ALASKA never coats from condensation, but is always clean and free from foul odor.

The ALASKA has become noted for being entirely free from mould or mildew, or unpleasant odors, regardless of the length of time perishable articles of food may have been kept in it. The ALASKA is the best refrigerator in the market, in construction, in power to preserve perishables, in economy of power to preserve perishables, in economy of ice, and, in fact, in all the points necessary to make them first-class in every respect.

In conclusion, the price of an ALASKA is no greater than that charged for vastly inferior makes.

THE CENTRAL'S BIG TAX BILL.

oads Being Called on for City Taxes. The Central to Pay Savannah $32,000.

The railroads will have to pay the county tax for two years within the next thirty

With the tax they will have to pay 7 per cent interest from the time when the tax was due. That for 1890 was due the 20th of December of that year, and that for 1891 was due the 20th of last De-

Some of the railroads paid the tax for 1890, as the test case against the act had not then been made. Among those who paid the tax for 1890 is the Central, which s the largest taxpayer of all the roads. The Central still owes the tax for 1891, nowever, with 7 per cent interest since the 20th of last December.

The comptroller general says the railroads must pay this tax within thirty days, and he has sent out the following notice to roads must pay this tax within thirty days, and he has sent out the following notice to all the roads not exempt by charter:

April 22.—Dear Sir: The supreme court of this state having affirmed the decision of the superior court as to the constitutionality and validity of the act of 1889, taxing railroads for county purposes, you will please pay the tax collector of the counties and cities through which your road runs the amounts due them, as per statement, previously furnished, within thirty days.

W. A. WRIGHT, Comptroller General.

It will be observed that the comptroller general calls on the railroads for city tax also. This is in pursuance of an understanding that the decision of the supreme court in the case of county taxation will be accepted with reference to cities.

If the city tax is paid without resistance, it will make the accumulated load very heavy on some roads. The Central railroad, for instance, will have to pay $31,740 for county tax, and to the city of Savannah alone it will have to pay $32,473. The reason for the heavy tax in Savannah is that the Central returns for taxation in that city $2,164,923, of which all but $85,000 is returned as personal property. This, at 11-2 per cent, gives the city of Savannah the sum above mentioned.

The Georgia railroad, in the same way, pays on $2,335,511 of property in Augusta, mostly the assets of the bank. This gives the city of Augusta, under the comptroller's view, $29,193 from this road. Atlanta only gets $6,869 out of all the roads coming here.

The Central will have a bill of about anta only gets $6,869 out of all the roads coming here.

The Central will have a bill of about seventy thousand dollars for county and city taxes, and this, coming along with the April interest in a dull year, is a pretty big lump. So long as the road is in the hands of a receiver, however, the comptroller general or the cities cannot proceed against it for the collection of tax.

The number of railroads called on for the county tax is about eighty.

THE RYAN CASE

Argued in the Supreme Court Yesterday

The Auditor. The Ryan case was argued in the supreme court yesterday by Judge Hopkins and Colonel Albert Cox, for Ryan, and Colonel N. J. Hammond and Mr. J. J. Spalding, for the creditors. The argument consumed the entire day.

The supreme court will issue an order in a few days referring the business questions in the Ryan case to Mr. Henry Peeples as auditor. The order of reference has not been written, and the date for a hearing by the auditor has not been fixed.

Is in store for every one who uses Hoyt's Jersey Butter, beyond all doubt the best butter ever brought to Atlant; uniformity in grade, richness of flavor and absolute purity are its qualities. It is all bought from one dairy, situated in the blue grass country and hence, always uniform; always of that fine, rich color and flavor which blue grass alone imparts to fine butter. We receive it often and as soon as it is received it is put up in one-pound cakes, wrapped in linen paper and put in our refrigerator, and is delivered to your house clean and firm. Now, is it not a treat to have no more poor butter, no more stale butter, but instead always the same high grade Jersey? We are furnishing that high quality of butter every day and can supply you. Ask any of our many pleased customers about our butter and then take their advice and come and do likewise, and the butter problem will trouble you no longer.
